

60x60 Dance – “Order of Magnitude Mix”

Date: May 30th 2010 10:59-21:00

@ FoFA Gallery, Concordia University
1515 St. Catherine St. West, EV 1.715
Montreal, Québec, Canada, H3G 2W1

Vox Novus is proud to present ten hours of music, dance, and video, featuring one-minute works by 600 composers, the most ever to be programmed in a single show. The show will be part of Congress 2010, the largest annual interdisciplinary gathering in North America, expecting approximately 10,000 visitors this year.

Emitted from loudspeakers at the four corners of the gallery, the pieces will be sequenced continually without pause for the entire duration of the show, with a new piece beginning every minute on the minute. A large analog clock mounted on a wall will allow the audience to follow each piece's progress.

Dancers will improvise at the center of the gallery on each individual piece, and live video will be projected on two opposing walls. The audience will walk freely in and out of the gallery, and around the dance area, being surrounded by multisensory stimuli from all directions.

Since 2003, 60x60 has been presented in over 200 concerts, shows, and multimedia installations worldwide with the mission to support and highlight the contemporary art community by bringing together a large number of artists of multiple disciplines, styles, media and career stages into collaborative art making in a format that is extremely accessible to the wide public.

This show is organized by Vox Novus in collaboration with the Canadian Electroacoustic Community (CEC) and the FoFA Gallery.
